

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method for selecting an audio language of a digital broadcasting receiver, including determining whether an audio language selection has been made, increasing an audio language on-screen display order number by one, setting a previous audio language on-screen display order number to equal the value of the increased audio language on-screen display order number, displaying a current audio language index, fetching a new current audio language index and setting the current audio language on-screen display order number to correspond to the new current audio language index, comparing the previous audio language on-screen display order number with the current audio language on-screen display order number, and displaying the new current audio language index when the previous audio language on-screen display order number and current audio language on-screen display order number are different.